

Expand your research horizons with national consumer finance expert Jeanne Hogarth

The College of Human Sciences Hilton Chair Committee invites you to an interdisciplinary research workshop, led by Jeanne Hogarth, 2009-10 Dean Helen LeBaron Hilton Chair and manager for Consumer Education and Research at the Federal Reserve Board.

Join us on Nov. 9 at 3 p.m. in 0331 Palmer for an exclusive opportunity to gain insight into the popular and timely research field of financial literacy. This campus-wide workshop will kick off with an overview by Dr. Hogarth of hot research questions related to financial literacy, potential funding sources, and existing data sources available for research. A highly interactive and collaborative event, participants will be able to brainstorm potential projects with other audience members and receive feedback from Jeanne.
