

COLLEGE OF HUMAN SCIENCES

OUR VISION: Expanding Human Potential

IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY

Master of Family and Consumer Sciences

Administered by the College of Human Sciences, the Master of Family and Consumer Sciences (MFCS) is a flexible degree option designed for professionals who want to advance their careers with a graduate degree or certificate.

The MFCS degree is offered in these areas:

- Comprehensive: This degree option covers a variety of family and consumer sciences subject matter. It is a non-thesis degree that allows students the flexibility to design a program of study that best meets their professional goals. Specializations include Foodservice and Lodging Management, Human Development and Family Studies, Textiles and Clothing. Select specializations are fully available online.

- Dietetics: A 36-credit program that prepares Registered Dietitians to practice dietetics at an advanced level and/or pursue doctoral study. Fully available online.
- Family Financial Planning: A 42-credit program that focuses on comprehensive financial services and prepares students to take the Certified Financial Planner (CFP)® examination. 18-credit graduate certificate option also offered. Fully available online.
- Gerontology: A 36-credit program designed to prepare professionals who are either working directly with older people or are involved in education and research related to the elderly. 21-credit graduate certificate option also offered. Fully available online.

To learn more about these program options, visit www.hs.iastate.edu/odeet/prospective

If the adventure of pursuing a graduate degree in Family and Consumer Sciences at Iowa State University interests you, email Human Sciences Distance Education at hsde@iastate.edu for more information.

